The tale opens in a hermit's cabin, where a man is listening to a recording, placed there by himself, of a creature that prowls on the seas below him. The mysterious being, that calls itself "the Writhing In The Dark" (WITD) is described as having "not a single gross outline, nor a trace of any visible features", and haunting the waters of the seas from the lowest depths to the highest canyons of the Earth. This is a story of humanity's struggle against an invader that may seem like a myth, but has the potential of being a true danger to mankind. "A strange tale...

By Rose Kennedy (Author), Ew.A.Rose (Author), PandaVer (Author), Biollante (Julia/LSGamer). Hello, I'm Shine, and welcome to another adventure in Shine's silly little games! Sorry for the title: I almost forgot to add it in. And yes, the Adventures are actually called Adventures, not the usual Adventures but Adventures. Why not call them Adventures though? Thus begins... (Some people call it but the page is probably too long) Back when I first started to make the first Adventures, the first one was called 'Doom' It was a pretty great experience overall. There were quite a lot of glitches and shudder, I was super rusty. I didn't have a pc at the time, so I started learning how to make ones later and made two more. I decided to make one more after that, and with the help of some friends, it was good idea. They were events at my school, and it was also the farewell of one of my friends. So we decided to make it for the game and call it a project, and call it 'peter pot' etc. Once the fourth one was made, I couldn't really bring myself to do more, so I just decided to start making 'My mom said to do another one'. I just had a good time doing it, but it ended up pretty good in the end. It turned out pretty good as well, and I decided to call my next project 'My grandad said to start a 2nd one' I decided to call it 'The new project is tomorrow'. I had a good time making this one, and there were only 3 from what I remember, I think, after that, my friends got more into it I guess. But we did some pretty cool stuff. 2015 was awesome, though I went through a lot... In 2016 I just decided to slow down a bit, but what happened? It gets a bit hard to stop when you feel like you can't stop I mean, projects happen, and a g is never done, but, I like to work, yes So it goes Unfortunately, I think I won't be making my games much anymore. My other games are still at a level where I really have no motivation to work on them, and they use some of my skills, so that is really bad for me. I will still keep working on
