Last week, we released the fifa 22 multiplayer beta, which includes an in-game experience testing the "HyperMotion Technology." Today we are giving an overview of the beta version of the FIFA 22 "Motion Capture Mode." This is an advanced gameplay mode that uses motion capture data from real-life players. This mode is still in development but its interesting to see how the technology works. During an FUT Match, the players wearing motion capture suits move with precise and detailed animations. These animations can be applied to gameplay or be evaluated. The data is collected from a complete match in motion capture suits. First, we meet with an experienced player who trains us for an hour to get the correct movements. Then we take the motion capture suits to various football stadiums. At each stadium, we measure the movements of the players and have them conduct the specific actions needed for the game. We will release more information about this in-game mode.
