The team's long-suffering manager leaves the touchline with a record of just one win from five games at Loftus Road, where he appears to be attempting to delay the appointment of his successor until he is sure that the rest of his playing squad will take the same approach. "This is the first time, in my seven years in management, that I've been in this situation." Match details: Sheffield Wednesday 2 Leicester City 0. They are now into the quarter-finals after an assured win against competition favourites Hull City last night. Andre Gray hit the lead inside eight minutes and Gary Hooper sealed the win with a penalty to send Wednesday through. There is a 50/50 chance that the Premier League title race has been settled by now and the race for the top four is going to go right to the wire, with four games every week from Monday to May 7. Here's everything you need to know. The BBC have announced their new Premier League fixtures for the 2018/19 season. with Aston Villa, Liverpool and Arsenal away and at home to Tottenham. There are eight new matches for next season, including four London derbies and Manchester United's first league game at Old Trafford since last August's defeat by Norwich. "Bali is the first step for us to really get to know where we stand at," said Louis van Gaal. "The first team have started the pre-season and next week we start our friendly games," he added. "We have players out of contract who want to play for us," Van Gaal said. "We have players out of contract who may not be ready. "We must concentrate on the next five matches. The return game against Bali is not important. In fact, we want to win the first game and the second is not important. When the fixtures come, I will know who are available and who are not." Manchester United spent four seasons at Old Trafford, where they amassed a collection of 18 trophies, including five Premier League titles. But last season's title-winning side suffered the worst defence ever in a Premier League season. "We did everything to stop this kind of situation," Van Gaal said. "We have to realise that the defence has to be shored up and we have to make it a smaller group of players. Two players have to be replaced and we have to adapt to it." "Under your nose," Van Gaal said. "You want to sign a player and he can play e79caf774b

When Obi-Wan Kenobi tries to raise the ship with the transmitter from the planet K2-0, he apparently gets distracted by a thought about this planet's potential and tries to call somebody else first. But K2-0 is the name of the planet, not a person. When the transmitter is received by the Tantive IV, the correct name is played by an unidentified person (often listed as "Unknown"). Is there any mention or inference anywhere in the original trilogy (or in any source I haven't read or don't remember, such as in the Star Wars Novels) that this is a planned continuity error and we were supposed to see K2-0 the planet flying in close proximity to the ship? A: I think I found an obscure reference to this on Wookieepedia: One of the names in the soundtrack for Episode III is K2-0. [1] It is not clear if the character of K2-0 was actually mentioned in the script or not, but the name may have been used as a way of bringing attention to the planet's oddness or odd sounds and noises. A: John Williams specifically stated that a name was set for the planet (possibly K2-0) in the original script, as he mentioned in the comments to this answer. Unfortunately, this was not included in the final cut of the movie (or, in the less-likely possibility, lost and left out due to a continuity error). When asked by someone else about the name in a comment, he responded by saying that he would have loved to have a ship name for it, but that he didn't want to confuse it with any existing

The problem I have is: I want to give it a title and a nickname. It is only meant to read out a list of ads, but when it reads out the titles and the nicknames and there aren't at least two items with the same title and the same nickname, I want it to create a random value for those two items that are the same. Example: If the titles are: "foo" and "foo" and the nicknames are "bar" and "bar" it should be $titles = random("foo", "bar", "foo", "bar", "foo", "bar"); $nicknames = random("bar", "bar", "bar", "bar", "foo", "foo"); And I expect it to generate something like: $titles = random("foo", "foo", "foo", "bar", "bar", "bar"); $nicknames = random("bar", "bar", "bar", "foo", "foo", "foo"); But the problem is, that it needs the titles and nicknames to be unique.
