i bought my 2020 palisade in june of 2020, and had the windshield replaced in august. it was due for a replacement in january 2021, but it is still cracked. i called hyundai and they offered to replace it but i declined. they told me that i would have to pay for the windshield and have it replaced. i purchased my 2020 palisade in june of 2020, and had the windshield replaced in august. it was due for a replacement in january 2021, but it is still cracked. i called hyundai and they offered to replace it but i declined. they told me that i would have to pay for the windshield and have it replaced. i bought the 2020 palisade about 2 months ago. they told me it was brand new and that they would hold it. they held it for 2 weeks and the crack has gotten much bigger. they said it is impossible to put a crack in a brand new windshield. they said they would fix it if i paid them $700. i only paid $800 for a new one. they could have fixed it for only $800. i am very upset about this. i have been in an accident in the past where the windshield was almost completely covered in glass. i am very afraid this will happen again. i was told by the dealer that the crack was a manufacturing defect. i have a replacement windshield installed and i am very skeptical. does anyone know if this is a defect? i am going to call the manufacturer. i have a 2020 palisade that i bought in october 2019. the windshield started cracking about a month after i got the vehicle. i noticed the cracks to be getting larger and they are starting to go through the sheet-glass as well. after getting the vehicle back from the dealership i noticed it is now leaking slightly from the outside and has a large crack going from the corner of the windshield to the corner of the vehicle. i have taken it back to the dealership to be fixed and they tell me it will cost me $700 to fix it. i am hoping that they are telling the truth.
